Gary-please see the letter from the Ferndale Schools which seems to reflect some biased and distorted perspectives on the project and EIS review process. I have not spoken with Linda Quinn since receiving a copy of this letter, the existence of which I was given a heads-up about by a school board member. No effort was made to contact the project for information.

The District's letter is not based upon thoughtful inquiry and it ignores exploring the potential benefits to the District and its citizenry. For example, general prosperity benefits everyone in reducing poverty and the need for subsidized public services like school meals. As well, a major addition to the tax base would allow bond and levy assessments to occur at less cost to each taxpayer.

Do you have any advice on this? We would like the District to have a full range of information, based upon facts and science.

Thanks.

Craig
